When a student receives a new yearbook, he usually glances through it, and then takes it home and files it on some closet shelf to gather dust for years.

There comes a day, though, when this volume is taken down and read more carefully than it was read the first time. This is when a yearbook really begins to mean something to him.

In this book are presented your friends and teachers, the buildings, and the events which were part of the school year.

The senior class of 1958 is happy to present its "Chief."

We Present the People of Our School.

As the graduating class of 1958 looks back upon four memorable years, many fond memories are recalled. Class elections . . . Guess Who's going steady now! . . . Slumber parties, dances . . . Football, basketball . . . Sweat shirts, kneesocks, and white bucks . . . Dates, clubs, responsibilities . . . Christmas vacation, 3:15 bell, detention, studies.

"Yzarc Sneet" was the name of our first freshman social event. This original title is "crazy teens" spelled backwards. Many members of our class attended a skating party held late in May.

Our sophomore party was called "Out of This World," the theme was based on "space." The class officers were Lee Jones, Dick McGreevey, Dana Vannoy, Maritza Morrison, and Mary Goubeaux.

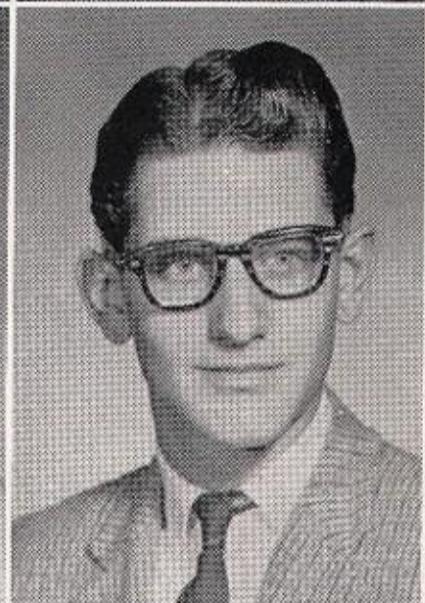

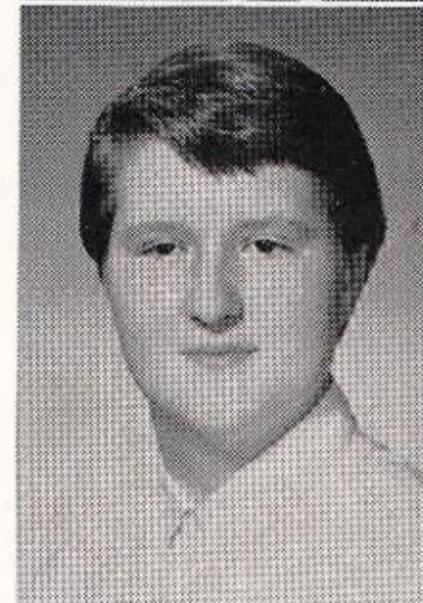

Our junior year was highlighted by a play "Forever Albert" and the junior-senior prom "Oriental Gardens." The class officers were John Sonner, Carol Kester, Mary Denniston, Jackie Cornell, and Elizabeth Frankman.

The senior year ended in a whirl of graduation activities. The senior class play . . . The Junior-Senior prom . . . Baccalaureate . . . and finally Commencement.

Magazine Sales

Each year the annual is financed by magazine subscriptions. This year the Class of 1958 sold subscriptions totaling $7300.

Members of the class who sold over $30 worth of magazines journeyed to Dayton as the guests of the Curtis Publishing Company. They spent the day sightseeing at the National Cash Register and the Carillon Tower, in Deeds Park.

Each day the two students who sold the most magazines signed their names on "Autograph Hounds." At the end of the drive the two students who had their names on the dogs the most times were allowed to keep the dogs as prizes.
